The reason is that they are not handling a machine, and you are. They may be thinking of nothing, absent minded. Their wits may be a mile away. It is your business not to hit them.

It is up to you to be so careful that a child cannot run under your wheels on purpose.

You should have such control of your engine that no one can force an accident upon you of that kind.

You ought to be able to run your car through a street full of blind, deaf and dumb, and drunk men.

Remember, when you have crushed a playing child to death it will be no excuse to your own conscience to say. "He deliberately ran right under my car." You
